

Message From President of CMAAO

Dear CMAAO colleagues,

It is my great pleasure to welcome you in the 48th CMAAO Mid-term Council Meeting. According to the newly amended by-law, passed last year (2011) in Taipei, this occasion carries a very special meaning in the history of CMAAO as it is the last mid-term council meeting to be held. I express my deep gratitude to Macau Medical Association for hosting this event and to the secretariat for their timely proposal and invaluable assistance.

In recent years the world suffered from natural disasters and newly emerging infectious diseases. It is our duty to fully utilize our professional expertise to help people through such crisis. Therefore, the keynote speech will touch upon “Current Management of Malignant Disease in the Asian and Oceania Regions.”

I am grateful for your dedicating time at our annual get-together to share experience and wisdom. I can see this platform enables us medical professionals to strengthen domestic infection control, enhance awareness and as a result, be well-prepared to combat spread of diseases effectively.

I wish the Mid-term Council Meeting a great success. Thank you very much.

Ming-Been LEE, M.D.*¹
